Southeast Feast

So where's the hottest Eastern North Carolina-style barbecue sauce being made these days? If you guessed "Eastern North Carolina," George Foley would like to prove otherwise. Foley, a hospital administrator in Tampa and owner of the Carolina Sunshine online business, teamed up with Lakeland-based Hot Wachula's (a gourmet dips and sauces firm) to produce a special line of Eastern North Carolina sauces, which are vinegar-based with pepper, but no tomato. The sauces are being sold in Tampa-area stores, craft shows and weekend markets.
